His Reasons for Not Attending the Pow-wow.

The Wigness Russ the Libersis and the Republicans Liable to Have No Party.

Since the meeting of the Territorial Lib-eral Campaign committee and the resignstion of District Attorney Charles C. Va-rian as its chairman Tun Hanain has made neveral attempts to obtain his political views, but on each occasion was put off with the explanation that the time might come when he would be at liberty to give his visits to the district attorney's office, and last evening was favored with an in-

"It is not improbable that, in the near future, Congress will pass an enabling act That there is reason for the fear and distruct of such a measure manifested by the Liberals cannot be desied, but it is also quite clear, to me, at least, that the most effective protest against statched can be registered within gattonal party lines. No political recognition in the future will be given to the Liberal party. Prior to the mostling of the great national conventions, our people were divided upon questions of party organization, and each exercised his individual lengment, as he had a right to do, in the premises. On either side there were two committees representing two or ganizations. The deay the authority of the judgment pronounced is, it seems to me, to throw of ail party allegiance. This I am not willing to do. The two great parties are struggling for supremney throughout the country, and this territory is covoted by both silke. It seems to me that it is the duty of every Republican and overy Democrat under these circumstances, to aid his party in the struggle that is going on.  AMERICANIZED BRITANNICA

By subscribing to this paper for one year at the regular subscription rates, we will furnish this great modern work of reference

$2.50 A MONTH FOR A YEAR.

Now don't quit here and go to reading something else; you'll be sorry if you do. For what we are going to say concerns the Welfare of Your Children, Your Own Comfort and Improvement, and the Hoppiness of your Home. Have you never dreaded the influence on your children of the sensational fiction of the day? We offer you an antidote for that evil.

Do you never, when you have a spare half-hour, long for something good to read? something interesting, but not trashy? something that shall be always ready to your hand, and not force you to spend your precious minutes tunting it up? We offer you a collection of just that kind of literature.

Do you never, in your family, feel the urgent need of some reliable and standard work of reference, to which you can turn with confidence when some discussion arises, or when information is needed on some special subject? We are prepared to fill that want for you, too.

Not to keep you in suspense, we propose to furnish you

In ten large, Illustrated and Handsomely Bound Volumes of nearly 14,000 columns, and over 8,500,000 words, for $30.00, payable $2.50 a month, which a brief calculation will show you is only about

Ever hear of the Encyclopædia Britannica? Probably. If not, any literary man or librarian will tell you that it is universally accepted as the standard Encyclopædia in the English language. It ought to be. It was originally published in 1771, and since that time has passed through nine editions, the latest of which was compiled fifteen years ago. In its lifetime of a hundred years and more it has gathered to itself the choicest work of the best writers of each successive generation, sparing no expense to secure from every expert in every department of human knowledge the best he was capable of giving. On the preparation of its various editions it has spent more than three millions sterling, and the cost of the latest or ninth edition alone was not less than ONE MILLION DOLLARS.

But the Eucyclopædia Britannica has three defects which detract from its usefulness in an American family. In the first place, part of its latest edition is now fifteen years—or half a generation—behind the age. In the next place, it makes no biographical mention of any persons who were living when it was compiled, no matter how famous they may have been; General Grant, even, is left out. And, lastly, the Encyclopædia Britannica is an English work, compiled for the use of Englishmen in England, and, as is only natural under such circumstances, it treats all subjects of peculiarly English interest exhaustively, and those of purely American interest with far less than the subject warrants. Three pages to an English County and a column or less to an American State is about the proportion.

The Americanized Encyclopædia Britannica

Contains every subject the Encyclopudia Britannica does, with the above defects carefully amended. The entire work has been revised to date, and a series of ninety-six new maps inserted; over 4,000 new biographies have been added, including every person of prominence in the entire world, and the Encyclopædia has been Americanized by reducing the space allotted to peculiarly English subjects and by enlarging that devoted to topics of purely American interests The result is, we honestly consider, the Best Encyclopædia in the World to day, and that is saying a great deal.
